

A Great Blessing

My wife and I have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla. She had rheumatism very severely, with ankles and legs badly swollen, and hardly able to get up and do a stairs without help. Many other remedies failed, but Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely cured her. It was only shortly after that I was taken with the same complaint, affecting my limbs and hips, so I just tried the same medicine with the same result. My wife and children take Hood's Sarsaparilla whenever they feel the need of a medicine and it immediately makes them feel better.

DAZED ON THE DESERT.

A Man Dies of Thirst Within One Hundred and Fifty Yards of a Lake of Fresh Water.

On the burning sands of Cocopah desert beside a lake that appears to be of the coolest and the purest of fresh water, lie the bones of an American who died of thirst, and around him are five or six holes of two or three feet in depth, which he dug with his finger nails in a frenzy of thirst. His fingers are worn out at the ends, and only his whitening bones are left to bear witness to the tragedy.

Jose Garcia, who makes a living by peddling from one little camp to another on the desert, has returned from a trip which began on Aug. 20. He left here at that time and engaged a guide at the first placer camp at Los Pinos, below the boundary line, to take him to a mining camp in the Cocopah mountains in the heart of the desert. The guide was named Quirino Soelilo, a half breed, and with them went also Frank Cota, a Mexican. They left Los Pinos in the afternoon, traveled all night, and by the next morning were far out on the desert. By some miscalculation they were without water, and though not lost they were bewildered as to the nearest way to a well and spent the next two days in traveling without water, becoming almost insane from thirst. On the evening of the third day they found water. They were then on the northeast side of Great Salt Lake, or Laguna Salada, that lies between the Cocopah mountains on the east and the Painted mountains on the west. The lake is about six miles wide and 20 or 30 in length, varying in size according to the season, indicating that it is fed by the gulf of California. It is very shallow and saltier than the waters of the ocean.

The three men proceeded southward between the lake and Cocopah for a distance of ten miles or so and there encountered two Mexicans and a white man. The two former were named Margarito Angulo and Felipe Moreno, and the American's name was not learned, but from the description he is thought to be Fred Wassan, who left this city for the Cocopah placers some weeks ago. Garcia continues the story as follows: "The men came from Los Pinos by way of Niji and had been without water for several days, and one of them, Margarito Angulo, was already crazy. He was as dead as a post and wandered around like a drunken man. He paid no attention to my guide, and we had to lay hold of him to make him drink. In a few hours he was all right. The others were in their right minds, but in a terrible condition, and as I saw their swollen tongues my own began to swell, for I had passed through the same torture only two days before, and even now my tongue swells while I think of it. We gave them water, and they soon revived and continued on their way. They were burdened with a dry washer and many tools and moved slowly, so we left them, my guide giving them directions where to find the next water.

"A few miles farther we came upon the bones of a man lying stark on the sand about 25 yards from the lake. There was no flesh left. The coyotes had found the body. One leg was gone, but the rest of the remains were there. The head lay toward the north, face upward. The whiskers were dark and turning gray, and the hair was the same. The man had worn a blue jumper, a red woolen undershirt, one boot and a brown slouch hat. I found a cheap class purse in his jumper pocket which contained this paper, which is a piece of an envelope or paper sack, addressed 'James Moore, paymaster A. T. and S. F., Topeka.' In the purse was also part of a greenback. There was nothing else to identify the body. The boot was about a No. 6, and the man did not seem to have been large.

"I examined the fingers and found the ends worn off, and there were five or six holes in the ground around the body, made by scratching for water. One of the holes, farther away, seemed to have been made with a pick and shovel. There were no tools around the man, no canteen and no sign of food. As we proceeded I traced his barefoot tracks for more than five miles, coming from the direction of Yuma or New River and going toward Coyote Wells. The tracks were irregular and frequently crossed and sometimes went into the lake. About 150 yards from the body, away from the lake, we found a reservoir of fine fresh water. We found the body on Sept. 12."

As the body is in Mexico nothing can be done by the officers here, and it will in all probability rest where it was found. Coroner Woodward will take steps to ascertain who the man was.—San Diego Cor. San Francisco Examiner.

CHANGING PIANISTS.

An Incidental Performance That Proved Interesting.

"As interesting as anything I've seen in this town," said a visitor to the city, "was a change of pianists that I saw in a variety theater. There was a man on the stage singing a song, and the pianist was playing the accompaniment. I happened to see the pianist glancing to the left once, and I looked in that direction myself and saw coming down the aisle a man that I judged must be the relief pianist, and so he was. I imagined that he would sit down for a moment and wait, but, dear me, I was very slow.

"He was approaching the piano at the bass end of the keyboard. When he had almost reached the corner of the piano, the man who was playing began gently sliding off the seat to the right, still playing. By this time the relief was abreast of the bass keys, and these the first player, who was still sliding steadily to the right, now relinquished to him, and then the newcomer, still standing, but also moving steadily to the right, struck in in perfect time and tune.

"There was a brief time, a second or two, when both men were playing—the retiring pianist the treble and the oncoming player the bass—and for a fraction of a second they were both standing. But now the new player is fairly opposite the center of the keyboard. He settles into the seat, and now it is his hand that strikes the treble, and now the whole piano resounds to his resolute touch.

"In fact, there never was a minute when the piano had anything to say about it. There never was a minute when the men were not completely masters of the situation. There never was an instant from the time the relief approached until he was firmly settled in his seat when both men were not continuously in motion, but the change was made without a jar or a slur in the music and without the omission of a note."—New York Sun.

Florida Fruits.

A correspondent of The Horticultural reports on the character of some fruits as grown in Florida. Of peaches Salway stands at the head. It has never failed. Elberta and Thurber come next. On Chickasaw stocks they sprout so that they soon take the whole farm. The Bartlett pear, he says, "don't grow worth a cent." Of grapes he states that Concord heads the list. Niagara succeeds next to Concord in productiveness, but is much better in quality.

Cottonseed Hulls For Cows.

Experiments conducted at the Georgia experiment station made it conclusive that, as chemical analysis indicates, cottonseed hulls alone are not sufficient to maintain a cow in flesh or milk. Analysis suggests that they are about equal to oat straw as a roughage, having, however, a considerable advantage in their finely divided condition, which makes them a convenient medium in which to mix concentrated and fine ground feeds, such as bran, cornmeal and cottonseed meal.

Fertilizers For Tobacco.

From the New York Cornell station comes a brief account of an experiment in which barnyard manure and sulphate or chloride of potash with nitrate of soda and superphosphate were compared with no manure on four fourths acre plots of heavy clay loam of poor quality. Barnyard manure gave the largest yield, but was not more profitable to use than the commercial fertilizers. Sulphate of potash gave somewhat better results than chloride.

Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard.

Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, says a New York writer, has never wholly recovered from the sudden death of her husband two years since. Social life she has almost altogether relinquished, and even her philanthropic work, in which she was always so active and energetic a laborer, has, much of it, had to be abandoned. This condition of Mrs. Shepard causes regret and sympathy not only among the many individuals whom she has befriended, but among numberless organizations and bodies who have relied upon her for both inspiration and support.

SLEEPY, DULL,

languid and morose, is the way you feel when you are suffering from indigestion, biliousness, and dyspepsia. You have a "played out" spirit and a "played out" feeling, and everything tires you. To set the liver in action, purify and enrich the blood, and to strengthen and vitalize the whole system, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Having a peculiar tonic effect upon the lining membrane of the stomach and bowels, it makes a lasting cure of all stomach, liver and bowel disorders. By increasing the blood supply, as well as enriching it, all the organs of the body are strengthened, and the nerves are fed on pure, rich blood. Neuralgia is the "cry of the starved nerves for food"; nervous debility and exhaustion, sleeplessness and nervous prostration are in most instances the direct result of a starved condition of the blood. The true way to cure these ailments permanently is to take the "Golden Medical Discovery," which was discovered and prescribed by an eminent physician, Dr. R. V. Pierce, at present chief consulting physician and specialist to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. If you want a medical opinion on your case, write him. It will cost you nothing.

A Book of 136 pages on "Diseases of the Digestive Organs," will be mailed to any address on receipt of postage, six cents. It contains names, addresses and reproduced photographs of a vast number of people who have been cured of dyspepsia, "liver complaint," chronic diarrhea, and kindred ailments by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

"LIVER COMPLAINT."

Chas. Kalamazoo Co., Mich.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sir—A few of my symptoms were heartburn and fullness after eating, sometimes pain in my bowels and bad taste in my mouth; sometimes I was feverish, with hot flashes over skin. After taking your "Golden Medical Discovery" I was relieved of all these symptoms and I feel perfectly well. Yours truly,

Charles B. Cook.
